Political Innovations & Technologies Center informed about important events occurred last month

Recently the Political Innovations & Technologies Center set out the regular analytical materials in connection with regional public and political events which were held last month. At the press-conference the Director of the mentioned Center, Mubariz Ahmedoghlu informed that the more important question interested worldwide last month was situation in Iran. "6" dealt with nuclear technologies in Iran, proposed Iran to stop activity concerning uranium enrichment. Russia, holding certain place in "6", stated about its intention to launch for applying specific sanctions against Iran, if Iran denied to fulfill taken commitments. Reportedly M. Ahmedoghlu, to date some tensity in the U.S.-Russian relationship, manifesting itself in reduction of finances allocated by the U.S. Congress to Russia, is being observed. At the same time, M. Ahmedoghlu noted the fact that dynamics development of the relations between Turkey and Russia was the most important event.

Regarding the South Caucasus, Russia was discontent with development in post-Soviet countries. Thus, the official Moscow did not cancel its indignation concerning desire of Ukraine and Georgia to accede to NATO. Moreover, M. Ahmedoghlu informed that the United States continues to rehabilitate its influence in Central Asia and charges Russia and China of exerting pressure upon the Central and South Asia. Intending to realize US$8 billion project in this region, the U.S. intends to reach its target.

One more important event concerning the United States which was held last month was a refusal of the main candidate for the post of the Ambassador of the United States of America to Armenia, Richard Houghland to express "Armenian genocide" and his statement that "the opening of frontiers between Turkey and Armenia is not a subject of discussion." Furthermore, M. Ahmedoghlu touched upon the point of aggravation of Armenia-Georgian relationship as a result of "appropriation" of Georgian songs. According to him, there is a certain tensity in Armenia-Russian relationship: "The facts of killing of Armenians in Russian territory and the attempts of privatization of Armenians' properties by the Russian incited Armenia against the Russian. At the same time, Armenia is concerned with that the U.S. regards Azerbaijan as more democratic. Armenian opposition assessed this opinion as slap in the face of Kocharian."

Last month was also important for Azerbaijan, as a number of international arrangements and forums were held here. Regarding Georgia, the official Tbilisi accusing Russia of conducting agitation activities, reinforced frontier control with Armenia. The situation tensity caused new charges by Armenia that accuse the Saakashvili Government of aggravation of conditions of their compatriots living in Georgia. Moreover, they are seriously concerned with development of Azerbaijan-Georgian and Georgia-Turkish relations.
